Dear Customer

CilRelease

After more than 40 years of production, we are withdrawing the CilRelease range of mould release agents from our standard product range, as we put our full focus on the development and manufacture of the Cilbond range of bonding agents.

We have however granted a Product Know How Licence for the manufacture of Release Agents to our UK Cilbond Distributor, Coating Technologies Limited, with whom we have an excellent and close working relationship.

Coating Technologies Limited has been formulating and manufacturing speciality chemicals from their site in Gloucestershire for 45 years, and to ensure a smooth hand-over, we have transferred all necessary procedures, know-how and formulations, as well as our approved supplier information and existing raw material inventory.

Coating Technologies will make the mould release agents to the same formulation as CilRelease, although they will now be branded as CR Release Agents. The team at Coating Technologies Ltd are excited to take this product range on, and can give the range superior support and development for the future. They also have many overseas customers and so are well versed in export procedures.

If any raw material changes are necessary in the future (due to on-going supply chain difficulties), they'll advise separately.

Andy Thomas will contact you separately to introduce himself and the products, and we'll both work hard to support you, and ensure a smooth transition of the business.

Any questions in the meantime, please let me know.

Kind regards

Marcus
